

commission. He was assured that all the commission could do in their behalf should be forthcoming. The reception of the commission by the authorities has been in marked contrast with that of a year or two ago, and has been as cordial as they could desire. -- Chieftain.