EDITORIAL ON J. F. BROWN

Governor Brown drove over from his Susakwa home last Monday to attend to business in this city. He reports that, notwithstanding the fact that planting has been greatly retarded by the recent heavy rains, the prospect for a big crop in the Seminole and Creek nations was never better. "There will also be fruit in abundance," says the governor. Mr. Brown has great faith in this section as a coming fruit country and is the possessor of an orchard at his home place of no mean proportions. He says that in the Indian Territory all of the conditions requisite to the practical growing of fruit are happily met and that at no great distant day this locality will rank among the foremost fruit producing sections of the world. -- Wewoka Capital.
