

Unless prevented by some unforeseen contingency, they will be again opened at the commencement of the second quarter. The We - a - la - ka Manual Labor School had been completed, and is now prepared for the accommodation of our children. The building committees for the Tullahassee and Asburry have entered into contracts, but neither of these institutions are completed. Any information which you may require in the matter can be obtained from members of either committee.

I have the pleasure to announce that the late excitement occasioned by persons inimical to our Government, has happily terminated. Peace and order now prevails. Some of the offenders were captured and tried before our legal tribunals in accordance with law and others have left our reservation. It is to be hoped that the matter is now settled, and that hereafter our citizens will confine themselves to legal means for the redress of real or fancied wrongs. After the murder of our officers had been perpetrated the assassins induced a large number of persons to join their ranks and our regular force of light horsemen was found to be of insufficient numerically to effect their capture. The judges of the different districts were then instructed to call to their aid a sufficient number of citizens to enable them to carry out the law. The call was promptly responded to by our people.

It is expected that reports from the different judges will be soon received.
