

(What did you see--just the Fords?)

Yes. The Fords.

(An old Model T?)

A Model T Ford. Although, there were quite a few trucks, not too many, just once in a while, mostly team and wagons--hauling freight. Everything was used by the wagon and team. But anyway, I stayed there a year and half along the last six months that man gave me the seven dollars a week and room and board. And I got along a little better.

(Didn't go quite so hungry.)

No, well I didn't go hungry the whole time that I--but there were times when I first got started--before I got started, why I couldn't find nothing to do. The President of the college was suppose to find me work, so I could work for my board and room but when I got there and enrolled and paid for my scholarship and everything, he couldn't find nothing. And there I was, I had given him all the money I had for the tuition. Well, he claimed he was trying to find some but I don't think he did.

(You found this job on your own?)

I found this job for myself. And I was getting to the point where I had to do something.

(Well, I think you made a wise decision. You worked in a restaurant, at least you were going to eat.)

Yes, I did. That's one thing I did have, something to eat. But it made it awful difficult trying to get my education.

(You could have finished a lot faster.)

JOBS AFTER LEAVING BUSINESS COLLEGE

Oh yeah, I could have learned more and could have taken different training. But I had to go to work just as soon as I was out of Business College in order to get by. But I always thought that I would like office work, but I
