

parents didn't know they had to have a roll number. The parents and great-great-grand parents and the young generation had to have a roll number. So the school teacher couldn't get the roll number they would come to me and I would have to go down and run them down--trace them back.

(When it comes to leg work to be done you had to do it.) (Laughter)

Well, anyway I spent a lot of time doing that kind of work with the Indian people there.

(Why did the schools have to have the roll number, for the children. Is that so they can get the government money, otherwise they can't be funded?)

Yes, that's right. No, well.

ACCEPTS THE PRESENT JOB, COMMUNITY ACTION

(So, you worked there for fourteen years--until you took this job over?)

Yeah.

(Did Governor James contact you to take this job?)

No, Doctor Bailey, the Area Unit Director at Talihina.

(The Indian Health Hospital?)

Well, in one way, when they--the Community Action first started, they put me on the Board of Directors for the Community Action. When the first meeting organized I didn't go. But I come to find out aht I was on as one of the directors. So I had to work.

(They nominated you.)

Yes, they did. And, well he said after he told me they elected me for one of the Board of Directors. Said some time or other something may come up with the Indian Affairs, in Community Action, which it did. He said they wanted me on there in order to work with them as it was.

DUTIES COVERS MANY INTERESTS - HEALTH CLINICS - YOUNG PEOPLE

Of course, there are a lot of things to come up in the Indian people, I was really proud of what they did for me. Community Action did for the Indian, the young
