

(Yes.)

LOCATION OF SCHOOL HOUSES AND GENERAL SCHOOL CONDITIONS IN EARLY DAYS

But I estimated then and I can't remember, '15, there was more people moving in. There was the Shankels, and the Thompsons, they ain't no kin to me, but they're some kin to my husband, and they moved up toward--we had to walk two miles to school.

(Well.)

Porter school, out here.

(What school did you go to?)

Porter school.

(Porter.)

That was the name of it. Porter school house. There was a guy lived that had this built that owned a tract of land about a section there, and he donated an acre of ground up there and we had to walk there. I never did get to-- school used to be just across the creek there from the store. Now they got it just south of store. My son give 'em that place up there.

(You say the first school was across the creek there from the store, where that old foundation is?)

They had to tear it down. But in that district, there was two schools, one is called Barnett schoolhouse on Barnett Flat and then there's that Porter schoolhouse. Both of them, they're all in the north end, so they finally voted it in and got a school there close.

BEAUTIFUL COUNTRY AND ENJOYED LIVING THERE - STORY ABOUT STRAY GOAT.

(Well that's a beautiful little part of the world right there, isn't it?)

Well, naturally I think--

(Well, I do too, just what I've seen of it going through there.)

Well, I don't like it on account of the hills, Too much hills.

(There is lots of hills there.)
