

Well, she never was real strong.

(That's a Gideon isn't it?)

Just on top of the hill, from Gideon's store.

TERECITA CEMETERY

(Now the cemetery for Terecita, is that an old established place?)

Uh-huh. The Indians started it.

(Started by Indians. It was there, when you remember?)

Oh yeah. Well, it was just a few, but the whites bury there now.

(The whites took it over?)

Uh-huh. Well, they all did.

(Yes.)

Anybody that wants to. But still--

(Do you remember who started it? Whose land it was on?)

It was on papa's land.

(Well.)

Oh when we lived there, partly. It was just right in there on the line. There was some over here and some over there.

(Yeah.)

And that place where Lee Bell lived, I think part of it was on it. The Indian part of it on, it was kinda on the Porter place, across the street there, across the field. I know Mr. Porter used to claim it. But it never was donated, they just used it. That would have made it easy because it was up on top of that hill. I wouldn't want it. My folks never did do that 'cause--come over here to use that graveyard.

HIGH WYER - SPRING CREEK

(You know, looking at that creek now. Is that Spring Creek that comes down through the Terecita?)

That's what you call Little Spring.
