

why of course they're ready and they lower the casket, why then he says his prayers, you know, and he's praying all the time they are doing that. So, then, when it's through, he tells the family that he's through, you know. He meant that he did his duty, you know, taking care of it when the person passed on and then sitting up with it, you know, and then had the - ate the food and he was through. And so they - then they generally have a bundle there on the side of the - and it would probably be a gift, you know, to thank him for taking care of their loved one that is gone, you know. And so he thanks them, you know.

(This tape is almost finished. There's just a few minutes left on it, and I want to know if you want to say something in Quapaw to go on this tape.)

Say something about Bob. (Laughter)

(You can say anything you want to.)

The rest of the tape is in Quapaw language.
