

Uncle Abe's old place. Now Uncle Abe's father was named Soldier Sixkiller.

(Yeah.)

And there was Redbird Sixkiller. There was all kind of Sixkillers.

(Redbird Sixkiller.)

Yeah, and one of them was named Cricket.

(Cricket. I've heard of him.)

One of them's name was Frog.

(I've heard of him too.)

Yeah. Had lot's of kinfolks.

(Yeah, long time ago everybody knew everybody else. Kept in touch with everybody.)

Yeah. Don't reckon we lost none. Don't seem like we're far enough yet.

These roads have changed around though, paved.

(Yeah, I guess after seventy years they've changed a whole lot.)(laughter)

Yeah. Yeah, they've just changed everywhere.

(That the old Sixkiller place here.)

Yeah, this is where old Abraham Sixkiller was raised.

(Well, my goodness.)

This here was old Soldier Sixkiller place.

(Old Soldier Sixkiller place.)

That was his father.

(Yeah. Well, this is an old place then.)

Sure is.

(Now Soldier Sixkiller, he's the one that came from Gerogia, wasn't it?)

I don't know.

(Now I read about one.)

Yeah. (sentence not clear) This is an old road right here.

(Yeah.)
