

(It must be.)

'Cause I'm eighty-one and I went to school there.

(Yeah.)

It was big hewed log house.

(Yeah.)

Extra big for a school house. They used it for a church too.

(Well.)

Did you ever know that Nelms that lived up there?

(Yeah.)

They were living there(not clear--static)

(Yeah, the Nelms were quite a big family too, lots of them.)

There was quite a few of them.

(Yeah, the Nelms--well, there was some Downings that lived in here, Ragsdale and Glass.)

Glass.

(Let me see, what other Indian families were up in here?)

There was the Swans.

(Yeah, the Swans.)

I don't remember for sure.

FARMING SMALL PATCHES

(Sentence not clear, but refers to tobacco worms.)

(Yeah. But they looked kind of vicious but they weren't though. They would never bite anybody. 'Cause eventually they'd turn into big butterflies of some kind.)

I have heard they did.

(Yeah, they did.)

These old regular grub worms, that come out of the ground, they turn into flies.
