

(Do you know why?)

It must have been a Thunder Clan. That's the way the Thunder Clan bury their dead. That's how they can tell. If you're buried in a sitting position then you belong to the Thunder Clan. All other clans bury their dead straight you know down, on their back.

(When they re-buried the skeleton what position did they bury it in?)

Oh, they placed the head on the east side. That was the proper way years back. But now they have gradually changed the rules (word not clear)

JOHN HENRY HALLBERG WAS INTERESTED IN SAC & FOX TRIBE

(Who was this man that financed your trip to Rock Island?)

Oh, his name was John Henry Hallberg. He was a German, and he really loved the Indians. And he sympathized with them because he had a library in his home. It's just full of history books. And he took us to his home. And we enjoyed visiting with him. And he showed us history books that he had read through. And just by his remarks we knew he sympathized with the Sac and Fox. The hardship they had gone through trying to retain their homes there.

(Did he live in Rock Island?)

Yes he lived, let's see--he lived on 23rd Street, 23rd Street.

(Does he still live there?)

No, he passed away about six years ago.

(Is the house still there?)

Yes, uh-huh. Oh, yes his home is--they have made an orphanage out of that big home. And I guess that's what he had in his will. He had some children but probably they didn't want to live in his house. So, it's now an orphanage.
