

Yeah, my daddy--my mother, she was a Sixkiller. They were both buried down there. My brother got killed by train. He was in the service. He was buried there too.

(Hum.)

Then, an infant brother, he was buried there, but there wasn't no marker on it.

(Yeah.)

My mother had a marker though.

(Uh-huh.)

And my brother got killed.

(Well, now, let's see who was the old man of the Sixkillers that lived up there in that place.)

Abraham.

(Abraham.)

Yeah, Abraham Sixkiller.

(He was the one that settled that part of the country there.)

Yeah, he was an old Civil War veteran.

(Well, he was an old Civil War veteran.)

Uh-huh.

(Uh-hum.)

I have a brother buried over here at what they call Blackbird Grave Yard. That's in Peavine settlement.

(Uh-hum.)

I can't remember all the names. It's a pretty good size cemetery.

(Uh-hum.)

There's a bunch of Blackbirds buried there.

(Oh, yeah, I saw them. Uh-huh, and the old man Lacie, about two or three
