

This (word not clear) was found here, but we didn't know that thing.

It was in the winter time though we was coming home and there was a coal of fire about this thick, about 8 feet long laying up on the tree there.

(A fire? Horrors!)

And we both seen it. We went up there and looked at it.

(It was burning?)

Yeah. It was burning.

(Did you all take it down? Or anything?)

Heck no. We didn't have the sense to do it. We got scared.

(You just left it, huh?)

I just got chill all over, he did too, he said.

(Now you all really saw this, right Hooley? I know you wouldn't lie to me.)

No, we wasn't lying about me and Maggie seeing that hog either.

(What was it? A big, old giant hog?)

Yeah, it was.

Maggie: It was a big, old black one. You know them--

(It's unusually big.)

There ain't no hogs around here run out, you know.

Maggie: We seen it just as plain. We went around the house to look for it, but I think we don't find it.

(Disappeared.)

Maggie: Yeah.

There's lot more people can tell you about that. We not the only one seen things around here.

(But it's always around that section isn't it?)

Yeah, it's always right arund that hill up there somewhere.

(Right around this hill? That's where I got that feeling is right when I was starting around. I turned that corner.)
