

Indians up there, you know, I guess, they're teaching them Mexicans there.

(Uh-huh)

That girl was saying, you know.

(Tape skip for about 1 minute.)

They won't join in with no other tribe. They just all--

(They kinda stick to themselves, don't they?)

They're driving some new cars though, boy, I'm telling you! They make money!

EARLY LIFE OF HOOLEY--FAMILY

(Well, Hooley,--didn't you tell me they was putting a railroad in over here, that had brought Mexican people in here from Mexico. When did they put that railroad through there? Were you just a young boy?)

No, I was just a baby. That was 1902. (Faye: 1902?) I was just a year old then.

(That was before statehood, wasn't it?)

Yeah.

(You were born in 1901? Did you live and grow up in and around here?)

Huh?

(Were you born around here somewhere?)

Right here on this place, 10 acres.

(This place here. You all used own land though, all the way down the road here, didn't you?)

We used to own--no, not here, this ten is all I had then I had some on that other section over here.

(And this was the land granny had been allotted from the tribe?)

No, this is mine.

(Oh, you were allotted?)
