

Uh-huh, if you're not a restricted Indian then it'll take it. If they are a restricted Indian you got land you keep it as long as you want to, you know. That's shows on the record, too, you got a roll number and when you-- have to, cause if they can't find your roll number if you are a restricted Indian, still you don't prove that you'll make it, you know. Like that. I didn't know that till then. I thought just sure as an Indian--a restricted Indian that is whole (not clear) was there, but its not that way anymore. It used to be that way, though. See, these people they got wise now they got too much land laying out and they ain't paying it. And some of 'em are not even entitled to keep it. See, Ross come down here and ask me questions and I told him, I says what I would do. He said he can't give them kids any birth certificate 'cause he can't pick it up. There's nobody here to prove it.

(Then he's a Farmer. Right?)

Yeah.

Maggie: Glenn denied that they went up there.

Yeah, I seen 'em. Bobby up there talking to Glenn, but Glenn he wouldn't have--

(What did Glenn say about him? Said he didn't know if he was a Farmer or not?)

Yeah.

(How else did he put it?)

Maggie: He said he was too dark.

Ross ain't dark.

(What did he mean by that?)

Maggie: I don't know.

(He thought he couldn't be half-white.)

Maggie: Ollie was dark, you know. Have you ever seen Ollie?

(No.)
