

(That river bottom was rich land, I guess, wasn't it?)

Yes.

(Lots of turnips?)

They don't raise no turnips.

(How about pumpkin. Do they raise pumpkin?)

Oh, land, yes! Great big ones, sure good.

(Well, yeah, that's good eating that pumpkin. How about the hominy corn?

Do they still raise hominy corn?)

Yes.

(What they call flower corn or hickory cane corn--yeah, yeah, that's good stuff.)

What they call Indian corn. I got plenty of that over there.

(Of Indian corn. Yeah, I like that Indian corn. Makes good cornbread too.

Did they used to have orchards upon the hill long time ago?)

Yeah. When we lived over there, we had some. We had a orchard. It was all dried out though.

(Yeah.)

Couldn't take care of it.

(But you still got huckleberries.)

Oh, yeah, lots of them. Lots ain't no account, but there's a whole bunch over there.

(Yeah. When do they get ripe?)

In June.

(In June.)

Yes, they get ripe in June. It last 'till July. That is lots of them.

They're so high though.

(Oh, yeah, they're high.)
