

(Now what are the Indian rouge and Indian perfume? Since we're telling this we haven't got anything we can see so we'd better explain it all.)
What do you call it a weed. These guys smoke it, go crazy. Marijuana, it has perfume smell to it. Marijuana. I guess that's the name. Some kind of Indian perfume what you call that. You put it on you.

(Carl) That's what it is. I don't even know what it is.

Let's see, some kind of, well, it's something like morning glory petals, morning petals.

(LSD, (Laughter))

Yeah, I guess, perfume.

(That's what LSD's made out of, morning glory.)

(What's the Kiowa word for it again?)

(Kiowa word.)

(Okay)

Indian perfume. It's a long weed, kind of greyish looking weed. Oh, I had a hard time finding it but a friend of ours said he had some. Seems like he said they were poppy seed, poppy.

(It might have been. But is there anyway, special way you treat it before you give it to her?)

Yeah. Uh-huh. You have to put it in a stem and then wrap it up in some kind of soft cloth, silk cloth. This Indian rouge, where did you get the Indian rouge? That's real hard to get too.

(Carl) I don't know what it's made out of.

You get along the river or creek somewhere it comes in big clay.

(Carl) Clay.

Yeah, clay, red clay.
