

(I know they used to have /words not clear/ roots or something.)

But I used old Indian doctor too, but didn't help.

(Uh-huh. Neither one of them helped. Hum.)

Yeah.

(So, I guess they all living except two?)

Yes.

(Are all your children living by your last husband?)

Huh?

(Are all your children living by your last husband? The ones you had by Mr. Deeringwater?)

Yeah.

MOST OF CHILDREN LIVE ELSEWHERE

(And they all live in and around here, too.)

Uh-huh. Tow of them's in Maryland.

(Oh, in Maryland.)

Yes, they live in Maryland. They're twins, you know, they're boys.

Cleo and Leo.

(What did they do? Go off out there to get jobs?)

Well, one of them went off to relocation. They sent them to Chicago.

(Chilocco Training School?)

No, Chicago.

(Oh, Chicago. Uh-huh.)

That's the one I told Donna. He was in Chicago. I was aiming to go down there and visit him and I'm going to /words not clear/.

(Well, good.)

Then I couldn't get to go, you know.

(Uh-huh. Yeah, that was summer before last.)

Yeah.

(That you thought you might get to go. Well, maybe you'll get to go next summer.)
