

There is another person, Miss Georgeanne Robinson, from the National Congress of American Indians. We have arrived to the portion of our program which I know several people would like to participate in. Again I would like to remind you that we want to conduct ourselves as gentlemen and ladies. We are going to permit, as time will allow, people to introduce themselves; and then if you would like to propose something to Senator Bellmon, you will have an opportunity for the next probably thirty minutes. We are going to limit this to about five minutes. Any of you who would like to come up and say something? If not--All right, Mr. Tinker. Many of you I do not know, and in order to speed this thing, why, jump up and come right on up and introduce yourself. This is Mr. Sylvester Tinker of the Osage tribe.

(Mr. Tinker's words are not audible.)

(A lady speaks next, but neither her name nor her words are clear.)

Anyone else?

(Another woman speaks, but neither her name nor her words are audible.)

I would like to introduce at this time a man from the Anadarko Area Office, Dr. Leon Wall. Take a bow! This is the gentleman along with the rest of us, of course, Dr. Wall, who suffered the most and we hope that soon (rest of sentence inaudible) Washington will get this report out. And we would like to see Senator Bellmon on some of our TV stations or a big block on one of our front pages signed by Senator Bellmon, or someone else in Washington maybe a little more powerful than he is, stating that all of this is a bunch of malarkey and some of the people aren't so bad after all. At this time I am going to present Senator Bellmon, and he has a few remarks he would like to make to us. Senator Bellmon.
