

my mother's aunt's brother. You know this Indian relation goes long ways.

(Now Sleeping Wolf was the brother of Punkin?)

Yeah. He had two sisters. Another sister of his, her name in Indian means

"Woman-Showing-Up." That was his sister-- hisei.bis. That was my grandfather's two sisters. Then he had a brother--he had two brothers. I know them. The oldest brother was Arrow. Then Sitting Bull.

(Were they full brothers to Sleeping Wolf?)

Yeah.

(Was this Sitting Bull--was that the same one that brought the Ghost Dance to the Arapahoes?)

Yeah. That's my grandfather. Boy, I know all them songs.

(Now all of these brothers and sisters, here--they're all related to your mother?)

Yeah.

(Could you tell me again how they're related to your mother?)

Well, that's her father's brothers, and they're supposed to be her uncles in white man's way, but in Indian they're all her fathers. This Punkin is her aunt.

(Now is Sleeping Wolf your mother's father?)

Yes.

(And then his sisters are Woman-Showing-Up and Punkin and his brothers are Sitting Bull and Arrow?)

Yeah.

(Now this Sleeping Wolf is the one that shot himself?)

No--Road Traveller.

(O.K. Now how is Road Traveller connected--?)

Well, Road Traveller was married to Punkin.

(I see. Now I get it.)
