

Well, I used to stay in school. There was a bunch of us that didn't have any folks. We used to all stay up there. Cheyennes. More Cheyenne kids, and there just be three Arapahoes stay--myself and Susie Rabbit and there was girl named Matilda--Matilda Little Buffalo Flower or something like that. We used to stay, and then my uncle and my aunt they come and got me. I lived with them until he give me away to the man I married.

(Which uncle was that?)

Coal Fire.

(What about the children of Sitting Bull? Do you know of any of those--?)

I just knowed four. Three boys and one girl.

(Are they all from the same wife?)

Yeah, they had the same mother. I think this Lydia was the oldest. Lydia Sitting Bull. And then Moses Sitting Bull. And then Joe Sitting Bull. And then Stacy Sitting Bull--a boy.

(What was their mother's name?)

Her name was Dropping Lip.

(Was she Arapaho?)

Yeah.

(Was Sitting Bull an Oklahoma Arapaho?)

Yeah.

(Do you know anything about how he brought the Ghost Dance to the Oklahoma Arapahoes?)

No. He went up Canada, somewhere, and he brought it back down.

(Did you know him very well?)

Yeah. I had three children when he died. Three kids. He had a stroke.

(Was he very old when he died?)

Yeah, he was pretty old.

(Does Lydia have any children?)
