

Once in a while they'd have them out --something to do.

(Did he live out from Tahlequah?)

He lived down Peggs Prairie. That's why I wanted your mama to show you the house, if you could remember.

(Yeah, that's right. We did. Uh-huh. You called it Peggs Prairie. Was that the original name?)

Peggs Prairie. A fellow by the name of Peggs come there and settled there in the early day, that's what I understand.

(It was a prairie then, wasn't it?)

Huh?

(It was a prairie then?)

Yeah you could see a mile or two or three mile across it. Now you can't see twenty foot hardly across it.

(Well we're going to have to go. And I'm going to come back up right away and visit some more with you.)

(End of Interview.)
