

You did.

(Out there at the camp.)

I won many of 'em.

(You have)

I was a young man at that time. I won many presents, but I don't ever keep 'em. I take 'em home and give 'em to my mother-in-law or father-in-law. If you don't do that it's not good, you know.

(Not right)

Not right. That's the way they believe. So, lot of times they got things and they give it to me. They change, return, goodness things like that, you know. They had good ways, and hard ways and nothing bad about it.

(Some of it sometimes worked a little hardship on some people.

Felt like they had to do it. They couldn't afford it.)

That's right. I remember my cousin, you know, and another cousin.

Her daughter was going to get married and we all had to take part.

And I seen one of my cousins come there with a truck with a whole beef, all cut up, loaded in that beef and then a hog there and he brought dishes. Oh, I imagine, them days a beef cost, a good beef cost hundred dollars, but now they cost two hundred.

(Yeah, at least)

And he done that. I seen it with my own eyes. And I thought it was wonderful, you know. And he didn't get over maybe one little blanket out of it. It's not what you get out of it. It's what good you can do.

(What you can do.)

Yeah. Satisfy the people because you been called on. And you try to
