

doing the guard. He was standing up. This snake crawled his body around this calf and started to choke it. So he have something to eat when he got back home to his widow, black widow, big black spider. And he started to put the pressure on this little buffalo calf. The buffalo wake up and start to holler. And they all stampede this poor snake and they cut him through the side. And they like to kill him. Didn't get no buffalo. So he crawl back to the camp. And he told his wife what happened. So his wife happened to be a medicine woman. And she got her medicine bag out and got some herbs and start to doctor her husband and he died that evening. And in the morning she took him by the tail and drug him up to another knoll there. She was going to bury him on top of that knoll. She too--about ten foot bull snake it was. She put some rocks on it. And she went back to the camp where they were camping. She going to take a last look at her husband grave. And there was a willow tree standing by close to the creek. She climb that willow tree. And when she got on top, she saw her husband's grave and she cried. And she sung this song: (Sings song again.) That's the story.

PRAIRIE DOG SONG AND RABBIT SONG- HE BELONGS TO RABBIT CLAN

Now there's another song I want to sing is prairie dog song.

(Sings Prairie dog song.)

That's the prairie dog song. Now I happen to be a member of the rabbit clan when I was a young boy, when I was about twelve years old. I used to join the rabbit clan.

(Sings Rabbit Clan song.)

That's the Rabbit song. Before the white man came to the western prairie land many years ago the hard working brave missionaries came from the east to the wild savages, killers, the Indians, to bring a message of life our beloved Jesus Christ who we celebrate today, Christ's birthday. Today I'm happy that
