

gone and maybe he's not even around. First thing you know he's up there again. He's right there with you. It's just that power. For that reason they teach don't never say anything to hurt one another. Say something against him because he hears all the time, every minute, every second. I don't care if he's thousand miles away he hears it. So, he's great. They call him (Osage word). Another word they call him. He's a god, but the god up there he's different from him. He's only here. They don't know how he got here, but he's here. And from there on the God teach him, you know, how to go about to live. Not point at one another. Them days they point out a deer, that deer die. And they clean him up and take him to the fire and they eat him. God learn'em to eat and live and raise childrens, so on like that. Same as the fish, you know. They have somebody to more power, know how to go about it. All the time they're close to God. That's why they do these things. Musn't point at one another. Well, later on, this man that I'm talking about he learn'em how to use bow and arrow. Well, they use a bow and arrow to kill buffalos, all right, Indians. That's God's way. To have them later on to do, you know.

(Before that they could just point?)

Before that they just point, they die. But this time they come on up to where they had the bow and arrow. Well, this Satan he learn'em how to shoot one another, you know, not their own tribe, but other tribes. I don't know why. They steal horses or getting over in their territory or something and then they, they fight, you know. They call it, them days, our people, in talking about my people. They don't just go out and kill anybody they want to. They don't do that. Well, 'course when they approached, you know. People come at you, well, you going to protect
