

It was Bill Lake.

(Yeah, Bill Lake)

Bill Lake. And before he was there, there was a fella called Griffin, Griffin, before Bill went in there.

(Yeah)

(That sounds right.)

He (words not clear) Griffin, old man Griffin had that little old store here a drug store.

(Yeah)

(And then old man Wisdom, how long was he in the grocery business?)

Oh--old man Griffin about--he didn't stay in there too long. He was buying groceries and things in the store there then his boy took it over, Frankie, Frankie.

(Yeah)

He lived to old age.

(That was a big hay shipping country at one time, too, wasn't it, it?)

Yeah. It sure was...

RECALLS NAMES OF SEVERAL COMMUNITIES AND PEOPLES

(Where was the Martha Brown school?)

Marthat Borwn schook, let's see, its a mile, just exactly a mile from that--

(Now was there any other schools down in here? That you remember.)

Gee, that's just an off branch school they put in there. The main school was Brushy.

(Brushy)

Uh-huh. See that was Brushy school.

(And then later they had the church, Brushy church, wasn't it?)

Well, they all connected right there, right there together, yeah. Right there together, but it was that place--oh its been moved good many years and years before I was born.
