

Mountain Church. Which was founded by Miss Isabell Crawford. And it's no longer there but it's beautiful place, and it have a very colorful history. And she has written books. One called the Kiowa and one is the Joyful Journey. And the third book she didn't get written but she had it partly written. And if you could read those they are very wonderful. She mentioned some of the names and you might find them for she mentioned many of the Indian people. And they all would camp together at (word not clear) mountain. And the people would gather and they would be getting their money, annuity payments. And she might have mentioned some of those names. However, her books are out of print and very rare. I have one of the original copies. You have to reach it.

(I can't get it down. (Words not clear.))

(Next few sentences not clear.)

OLD CAMPBELL HOTEL

(You mentioned something about this Campbell Hotel (word not clear) .)

Uh-huh.

(Are those, if you stand up by the church and look down, little to the south or little to the west there is an old ruin. There's some old ruins?) That's probably, it was a stone building. And we bought, I think we went over there for milk often, for eggs or something. We'd go over there for some supplies you know when we run short. And I imagine that's the ruins. I'd like to go back and see. I probably could identify the place. And then next to our government place was Bert Berry's property. Amy Berry I guess it would be. I don't know her last name. It's right adjoining the government property where we lived. And that would be J. B. Bull. Maybe he would remember something of the neighborhood. He lives out here. I believe in Concho.

(About how big was the hotel?)

Oh. To me it was big. (Laughter.) It was two story I believe. I'm not sure.
