

Unidentified Voice: Old church house used to be there where he went to school.

(Yeah.)

And they had--let's see, pictures of the old church.

Unidentified Voice: They was talking about it, but I forgot.

Mr. Gourd: Joe. They had a boy named Joe and I cant think of their names.

Unidentified Voice: I guess Sam and Wilson and Arnold went to school there.

Mr. Gourd: Taylor Walker.

Unidentified Voice: Ned Dreadfulwater.

Mr. Gourd: Yeah.

Unidentified Voice: What about Sam Hawkins--

Mr. Gourd: Yes, he's mu cousin. I guess he was.

(Louis Beamer then he was the preacher here at the community at one time.)

Yeah.

(What church did he preach at? Did the church have one name?)

Mr. Gourd: I never did hear of any.

Unidentified Voice: Olive that's what they call it.

Mr. Gourd: Our church is Olive.

(Olive Church.)

Mr. Gourd: You can see the church from the little store.

(Yes ma'am.)

FOOD - KANUTCHIA - GRATED BREAD, ETC.

(You know I've often wondered if anyone could remember, say back in your mama and daddy's day, what kind of food were they able to fix up just from, what they would call the Indian dish now. You know, I know they make kanutchia and bean bread and grated bread and I think they had other kinds, but I never did hear what other kinds of food that they had. They used pumpkin, I've heard them tell about it.)
