

(I remember the time you had boils under your arm.) (Laughter)

That's when I was taking care of all the flu people, when the flu was so bad here and so many people died. Eyer one of my folks had it. And I never did take it. You and all the boys and your daddy. And I was scared to death for you.

(We all had it and you didn't.)

Yes. You all had it and I never did. And I had carbunkles under both arms and I taken care of all of you and after you got better, I went and help set up with Tony Sachell's bunch, everyone of them. And anybody that had it but I never did take it. But I think, and Doctor.

(You just got immune to it from being around it so much or something, I guess.)

Well no, I think them boils kept it.

(Kept it.)

'Cause Doctor Worten lanced ~~me~~ once and the other twice.

DISCOVERS THAT SIX MONTH BABY HAS HEART ON WRONG SIDE OF BODY

(Did you have the measles before I was born?)

I was four months pregnant when I had' the measles and I thought I was going to die.

(That's probably what turned me around inside wasn't it?)

That's what the doctor said that done it.

(When did you all find out that my heart was on the wrong side?)

You was about six months old when you got sick. And I got to listening at your lungs to see if you had congestion in there.

(Had any lungs.)

And I was going to doctor you put the quinine and grease and stuff on you, you know if your lungs was, you had a cold. And I couldn't find your heart. And I was just scared to death and I felt, finally found it way over there
