

(Oh, the granddaughter.)

They ain't got nothing themselves.

(Oh, he's already willed it?)

Uh-huh, and hse give her daughter little right over there little ways, and they divided land, too. And this boy over here was walking around they divided him, too, now it's all divided up. That's easy for them to get on welfare.

(Seems to me it should be 'cause you don't have any land or anything.

They don't get any help from anyone? No welfare?)

So they be twenty-one for they to take that deed--that girl, them others they all ready got the deed to it. She said the old man drawing old age, you know. He's the only one. And then her...

(Pretty soon. '73, August. What was your name, Aunt Polly before you got married?)

Cochran.

(Cochran.)

She, my mother was Cochran, you know.

(That's how you all are related? You all's name now is--what is it now?)

Child: Blackfox.

(Blackfox. How far in school did you go, Aunt Polly?)

First grade:

(Answers in Cherokee)

(None.)

VISION POOR - HAD TO QUIT SCHOOL

None, they took us out. They told us school, no good eyes.

(Oh, you couldn't see good. When did you finally get glasses? When you were much older, huh?)

Forty years what her been wearing glasses...That's what they used to make.

(This is nice. Who made this?)
