

Jasper Sakadota, of (not clear) is the head singer for the afternoon program. It is our pleasure in having our tribal friends here with us from the Ponca Tribe. We also have in the stand a party of Pawnees who have just come into the camp, along with a gentleman that is outstanding Pawnee singers who we are certainly anxious to hear the good old Pawnee songs and announce them on this program. Alright singers! On with the dance. Throughout the celebration we try to explain to you when we have time. The singers are getting some watch. (Not clear)--and ladies and gentlemen while I have the time I would at this time, we would like to present to you--it is our pleasure to like for you to know just who are leaders of the Kiowa Tia Piah are. The first two are Headmen, they are authority over Tia Piah organization. We have Mr. James Auchiah. Will you stand? Vincent Bointy, Nelson Big Bow, and Mr. Tom Little Chief. Ladies and gentlemen these are the four Headmen of the Tia Piah Society, made possible for this celebration. How about a hand? (Applause). Thank you. Other members of the executive board, directors, other various committee. The man who is not able at this time, recuperating from illness, and Yale Spotted Bird is replaced by Bill Bointy at this time. Bill is here on the speakers stand. Will you stand Mr. Bointy, Ladies and gentlemen, Bill Bointy, the treasurer. (Applause)

Bill Bointy: Secretary, gentlemen, who have held various positions in the American Church Mr. Guy Queotone will you stand? This is secretary, Mr. Guy Queotone. They are Kiowas. Our assistant secretary, Leon Botone. Will you stand and face the committee. Law enforcement of the celebration, ladies and gentlemen--and they have other various chairmen on the celebration committee. May I mention the rest have done a wonderful job around the arena. Various personnel have been selected to head our dancers. Grace Komá twi of Carnegie, will you stand? Lady dancer, there she is, the wife of our ticket sales manager, Fred Kuma twi. We have two young men and head dancers for night program, twins, I don't know whether they are around the arena. May I present at this time,