

(Yeah, I've been there. They seem to be doing alright, though, with what they've got.)

I saw it in the paper.

(Yeah.)

What have they got? What do they have? Do you know?

(Well, they just have that big restaurant there at that Indian gift shop.)

Well, it's just full, that's all.

(That's about all I've seen.)

The government built it, didn't it?

(That I don't know. I believe the Cherokee Nation built that. As I understand it.)

I seen an article in the paper the other day about it. I'm going up there one of these days to see.

(And of course that--oh ancient Cherokee cultural center. The Cherokee Nation built that according to Charley Victor.)

Well they've got a theatre up there,

(Yeah, that's in connection with the theatre.)

I see that Trail of Tears is going to be shown.

(Yeah.)

You know we drew script money. There's lot of people--my wife's people draw--drew on they'd draw script money. I'm trying to think what that was. We drew six something. And they drew hundred and something. Immigrants--Immigrants.

(Yeah, Immigrant payment.)

But papa's brother drew Old Settlers Money. Papa, he wasn't here, I guess.

(Yeah.)

But, you know, I have a sister. My mother was pregnant when they's enrolling,
