

to use in there... (wind static)

(Is this before the Sun Dance starts?)

No, this is--this is the pipe ceremony.

(It's a separate thing?)

Separate ceremony. A separate ceremony altogether. And we have that much faith in what we believe in. That's why we have to go up there. Buy two new wall tents--everything new what goes in it.

(What time of year do they have that?)

Any time. Got to notify them people you're coming up there. Buy everything new and take it all up there. Then we go to town and buy groceries and get one beef to cook. Buy beef and prepare that beef. Cook all meat at certain meals. And there's certain parts of that beef that you can't cook. Because these ceremony people, there's certain parts of a beef they can't eat.

There's certain things--like certain--oh, they got clans, too, you know.

Each clan's got-- Like the Deer Clan--they can't eat deer meat. Me, I don't belong to the Deer Clan--I can eat all the deer meat I want to. Certain clans got different things that they can't touch. In a beef, they can't eat certain parts of that beef. You ask them, "Do you eat this part of the beef?"

They say, "No. I can't eat that." They say what they can't eat. Like them rabbits--the Rabbit Lodge. Those that belong to the Rabbit Lodge, they can't eat rabbit. I don't care how you prepare it, they can't eat it, if they belong to that Rabbit Lodge. That Beaver Clan and this and that--those clannish deals--it's out of the question.

(What clan do you belong to?)

I used to belong to (unintelligible)...I used to belong to that clan and then
