

He was my brother's boy, too.

(Oh, Ducey's?)

(Words to child irrelevant.)

Sakey's going to get you next time, she said. When they gets them chickens.

HERBS AND PLANTS FOR MEDICINE

You stay in there. We didn't know what the doctor it is, when

(Sakey: speaks in Cherokee.)

They call uh--"Fire eyes" she's pointin' at them somewhere. That's what they used to drink they have fever.

(If you have fever?)

Uh-hum.

(Fire eye?)

(Background noise and static make tape inaudible for about 5 sentences.)

That's strong too.

(It's called-uh--)

What you call that? (words not clear)

(I don't know exactly what you call it, but you know I'm familiar with it. I've seen it. It's called fire eye? Cherokee's call it fireeye?)

Uh-huh. I see it all the time.

(You boil the roots. And then you drink it.)

If you had a fever.

(For fever)

(Irrelevant conversation with child)

(It's too bad we don't know the names of these.)

I know it.

(Sometimes. I know these are four o'clocks.) (laughter)
