

(So she just has to get by on welfare until she gets older and then she can get old age too?)

Uh-huh. Shoot, we have to wait a long time to get old age. (Laughter.)

(Yeah, you're just young chickens yet!) (Laughter)

Sakey, you'd better get married. (Laughter) Yeah, she just gonna look around somebody (unclear).

(Isn't there some kind of tea you can drink to get a man? If there is I want you all to tell me about it.) (Laughter)

(Maggie speaks to Sakey in Cherokee.) (Laughter) She seen somebody standin' there close to the door somewhere, you know. (Maggie and Sakey speaking in Cherokee.) She said and he told on him and called the police.

(Oh!) (Laughter)

She said they caught him.

(Sakey speaks in Cherokee)

(Really! White man)

Yeah, she didn't know who it is.

(Sakey and Maggie speaking in Cherokee.)

(Oh, well there's been some robberies lately.)

Yeah and--(Speaking to Sakey in Cherokee) She has to stay home just like me. I guess when Hooley leave me this way I stay home so nobody'll kill me, I guess.

(Cause you don't have anybody to take you, do you Sakey?)

That boy's got a car now and she said it works.

(But he's workin'?)

(Sakey speaks in Cherokee.)

(Where is he working?)
