

Well and I have to work, and that boy likes it.

(Did you have any favorite programs that you like the best?)

I don't know, I ain't got time to watch it. (Laughter).

(To figure it out, huh?)

Yeah. (Laughter)

(Maggie and Aunt Suzie speak in Indian language for about a minute.

Also Field Worker and Maggie discussing husband's health.)

Sometimes, it hurts him pretty bad (inaudible), you know.

(Are you diabetic?)

Maggie: Huh-uh.

(Is Aunt Suzie?)

Maggie: I hope I don't take that.

I reckon. My doctor never did say nothing about it.

(Uh-huh. Well, that's good.)

Well, they did say one time. He said that, "You're doing pretty good.

You need--you didn't take any like that yet." I said, "Did they catch (?)

like that?" (Laughter) Doctor said, "No." He said, "Why?" I said, "I was wondering (?) so many people like that." (Laughter)

(Well, now when you was in the hospital, you were in for--you were hemorrhaging. Is that your stomach or--?)

Yeah, never did find out what the cause of it.

Maggie: Don't you think about that stuff we had like this? Don't you think come up on her?

(Her stomach?)

Maggie: Uh-huh.

(It might be something like that.)

Maggie: You know, I can smell blood sometime, you know, even then.

(Inaudible) like that. (Inaudible) he had a, oh, (speaks in Indian language.)
