

I'm saying while ago, these Indians are more white.

(They're not any more educated than the Plains Indians.)

All right. They're white inclined. So as long as everything's all right with them, they have nothing to worry about. You see. I mean if they were full-blood Indian. And they were going on an Indian educational grant. And they were depending on this grant to go to school. Well, well they'd think twice about anything they'd do because mostly maybe-- (They're too afraid. They're afraid to raise a stink because the grant may be taken away from them.)

Because of that.

(I noticed Tiger wasn't afraid of it.)

Well, Tiger didn't recognize as being an Indian. And people know that. Well, he does show his Indian blood. This is the reason where even a lot of white people are the same way. They show their Indian. And I mean they can prove their Indian blood, that's the reason they're getting their grant. I mean if it was strictly our own full blood. You have to be full-blood Indian before you get a grant. He wouldn't get a grant and he wouldn't speak that way. Because as long as he's getting an education he can speak out on what he wants to. Well, we have spoken out before. We have brought this--you can say--disagreements that we have among the Northeastern State College Campus. We want more publicity from this area. We ask for more publicity because of our Indian club being Indian. We want more publicity. Not only being Cherokee, we cut down this Cherokee bit.

(Well, this isn't Cherokee. There's Choctaw. There's Chickasaw.)

Well, listen. This is what I'm telling you. 'Cause we're tired of this Five Civilized Tribe being on the Northeastern State College, you know. And because of the Northeast State College. We're very civilized. We accept the white man's view and everything else. We're Plains Indians
