

living here? Whitetail or whatever you call it.

(No. White Day. Fannie White Day.)

Do you know her, Donna?

(Third: Who?

White Day.

(Fannie White Day.)

Third: White Day. No, I don;t think so.

(This old lady that lives over here behind--)

Third: White Day, she's (not clear) Yeah.

(That's right. About ninety years old.)

Third: Yeah.

(Yeah. She's been here a long time.)

She's a Shawnee, I heard.

Third: Oh yes, Yeah, she lives--I don't know where she lives up there though.

(First house behind Jetton's store, I believe. I been over there.)

Third: She moved. All the water's there now.

(Yeah. Yeah, I think they used to have a farm back over there someplace where the water is now. Do you remember about an old Indian preacher that used to live here by the name of Sixkiller? Long time ago.)

Third: No, I don't remember.

You didn't come by old standingrock used to be.

(Yeah.)

East of there about half a quarter or quarter.

(Yeah, somewhere up in there.)

Right up this Saline, Saline Creek. I remember I came there. Just a four day meeting was either 1907 or 1908. And there's a little old building there. Right east of the old Standingrock place there. They told me
