

(Half Kiowa?)

Her dad was a "Yo-neg."

(Uh-huh.)

(Do you ever go up to any of the Kiowa festivities or anything?)

we have them all over the state. You don't necessarily have to go down to Carnegie or around in there to go to Kiowa. . . .

(That's around Anadarko and up through there?)

Uh-huh, We have the Tulsa Pow-Wow, in Tulsa they have the Tulsa Pow-Wow Club. They're having their Pow-Wow in August. . . A real big Pow-Wow, it's one of the largest in the state and in the nation.

(Uh-huh.)

Matter of fact, Monday night, we had one in Muskogee. I really enjoy going to Pow-Wows. I really like them. Like, especially the forty-niners.

(Oh, yeah, they're fine.)

You've been to one?

(I've been to 'em.)

I know you're from Norman, so.

(You'd better believe it.)

You know what goes on.

(Now, I'm not from there, but I've been up there.)

Oh.

(I'm from Kentucky.)

Oh, that's right. I'm sorry.

(I came here as a VISTA, three yrs. ago and decided to stay.)

You like it up here?

(After my assignment was over, I got on with O.U. It was an opportunity to still work with Indian people and I like that.)

Where did you get your degree at?

(I don't have a degree, I'm educating myself in sorta mid-stream.)
