

supposed to be pretty good. He was with Peace Corps down in South America, I think. So, they started some co-ops and they're putting up collateral for people, to borrow money that can't borrow it otherwise, to open up small business'es and so on. I think this is very good, but now of course, that doesn't have anything to do with the youth group. The youth groups right now, I don't know what's happening with them. I know the Belt boy, is it Tommy Belt from Oaks?)

Rocky Ford? Was it Oaks? I know some Belts that live at Rocky Ford.

(Well this one Belt that was voted as President of the O.I.O. Youth Council, he's out U.C.L.A. now at a summer workshop.)

Oh, is that right?

(Yeah, with National Indian Youth Council and he's a real bright kid.)

National Indian Youth Council, is that the one that Clyde Warrior was connected with?

(Yes it is. Clyde Warrior and Browning Pipestem. And Browning is still with them. Well I think Browning is only on the Board of Directors now, But Clyde Warrior was President and now Jerry Wilkinson is the new President. He just sorta took it over a couple of months ago. Well, there was a little chaos there because they had been in a transitional period. Who knows exactly what trend it's going to take. We'll see.)

Did you know Clyde Warrior personally?

(Yes, uh-huh.)

He died here recently, didn't he?

ALCOHOLISM IS A PROBLEM

(He died of alcoholism last summer.)

Uh-hum, I knew he was an alcoholic.

(His mother had died of alcoholism two moths before Clyde died of alcoholism. That seems to be an honorable way of death for Indians.)

I don't know. . .that's right. For some strange reason the Indians are
