

(Yes.)

Sarah Brown? I believe her name was Cully, was it?

(Sarah Cully. Un huh.)

She was going to school. Had two children. Ann Cully and one (not clear). There were numerous ones that went there at different times. Sarah not livin' now. Remember when Jacob went to school.

(Oh you did? He was a Creek there.)

He was a Creek. He's the only boy--yes, I believe there's a white boy that went there. Just two boys, at a girls school.

(A girl's school,)

Yes, and Newman Jacobs, he went to school there.

(Newman was John Jacob's son.)

Yes.

(Frank Jacobs rather.)

Which one was his daddy?

(Frank.)

(Frank Jacobs. He was half Creek and half white.)

And he had a sister, went there.

(Newman did?)

Yes.

(Do you remember her first name?)

No, I don't remember. She was small.

(Do you remember any other Seminoles who went to school there?)

They worked at the school too, the one who never come home.

(What did you do? Did you go to school all the time, or did you work part of the time and go to school part of the time?)

No, they didn't make us work, only we'd do housework in one of the
