

fifty thousand dollars now, and the first 6 month and, then, you pay us the other amount," in other words, the six months period. So, in 1888, the Cherokees said, "We feel like our land, grazing property, is worth more. We're going up to two hundred thousand dollars!" The Cherokees will demand two hundred thousand dollars in 1888. And, what I said a moment ago, before the cattlemen were told, "Get your cattle out before the time limits up the cause making preparations for the Cherokee run that I spoke briefly about one moment ago. Continuing with the ten period and on up to 1890. In 1890, we had something going to get in Oklahoma. We have two pieces of property. That's the reason I started to say concerning Alfalfa Bill Murray. Finally, in the year 1890, this part, this, this, the yellow, and this, joined together. In other words, this or this by this time, 1890, was a, I mean, in other words, should be used. This still Indian Territory, but only this part. In 1890, this region that had never been designated or given to any state. Finally, the Federal Government added this part, and the green part that's the first run and all this called Oklahoma Territory. This is your piecemeal that I mentioned awhile ago. So, we are joining together this part and this part to start Oklahoma Territory, and this column you will add different parts. In other words, until just before statehood. So what I'm--this is the point I'm trying to make: in 1890, we have two regions, one called Oklahoma Territory, the other called Indian Territory. So, we're not adding all of the same type to make Oklahoma Territory. It will be a piecemeal or portions at a time. This is the only part left of the original Indian Territory. As far as the Cherokees in this particular part, I can't think of any specific thing where the Cherokees would be related to this specific idea. The Federal Government will send governors to the exact total of nine starting at 1890, and they were naturally
