

whether it was directly south or not of Kelly. And then there was Booker school. That was a colored school across the creek. By the west.

(Yeah. West of the town, was it?)

West of Kelly.

(Oh, west of Kelly.)

West of White Oak. I don't know how far out there. And then there was Stella. That was north of Fallin school. That was south. New Lima is about 1912, something like that. 1911.

(Kelso is that a fairly new school. I mean, new in comparison to the others or was it old also, huh?)

No, I think it was pretty old. I don't know the date of it, but it was there in 1906 when we first moved.

(See, let me get my directions here. South.)

South.

(And a little bit back east of Vinita, I see an old school down there that the name is still on it. Called Sequoyah.)

Oh, that's down this way. I don't know how long that's--but it's an old school.

(I was just interested in knowing how old that was or if anyone could remember anything about it.)

Yeah, they have a record in--

(They should have.)

In the county superintendent's office there at the courthouse.

WOLF ORPHANAGE - CERTAIN PERSONS

(In connection with the school, did you ever hear anyone mention the Wolf Orphanage?)

Yes, we visited there.

(Well, I would like to hear anything you could remember about that.

'Cause no one else can remember anything.)
