

See he was in the army.

(Yeah)

United States Army. He had a bunch of scouts in there. That's where he got that. He was captain of the scouts.

(Now, your father's name was John, wasn't it?)

Yeah. John.

(All right now. We have that.)

He had a brother. Now his stone might show Henry Faileaf.

(Yeah, I found it.)

Well, that's his brother.

(Yeah.)

Henry. Then his wife, 'cause she was there. I think they had a Fields in there. Pretty sure name Fields in there.

(Yeah.)

COLONEL JACKSON - CEMETERIES

There was old stone, you might have noticed it. Colonel Jackson.

(No, I didn't find it.)

That's my dad's. He's got a big stone.

(All right!).

That's my dad's stepfather.

(All right Colonel Jackson.)

Colonel Jackson. He's really about the last chief, I guess, the Delawares had.

(Well.)

That I know of. Now there's several of 'em, they call 'em chief. But they wasn't. I think he's about the last recognized chief that I know of.

(Colonel Jackson.)
