

(Well, even the churches have had a lot of changes in the community as well as elsewhere too.)

That's the folks they sold it to. They built them a new one. They just own the new church in this community.

(When you first came here, about how many people were living in this community? Of course, there are a lot more here now.)

We used to have around 35 to 50, I think, in our Sunday school. Part of the time, we had two churches. Well, we at the Presbyterian church always had union Sunday school, but the Baptist pulled away, and organized their own Sunday school. Part of the time, we had two Sunday schools:

(Was that back in the days when they used to have Sunday school rallies, Sunday school picnics? I heard of those. They don't have them anymore, do they?)

No, I don't think so. Well, they still have picnics. Claremore's going to have picnic the last of this month, the 27th. We'll go out to the lake and have a picnic supper.

NAMES OF EARLY DAY SCHOOL TEACHERS

(Who were some of the early school teachers that you remember in the community?)

Well, I never went to school here. Cora Brazell was one school teacher in this school. Mr. and Mrs. Denning taught school for awhile over at Claremore. R.L. Williams and his wife taught school awhile up there. Then, well, that's five teachers, and, then, let's see, Mr. Thompson was the last teacher. He is teaching at Tiawah now. They built back the gymnasium up there and went in debt. If they hadn't been in dept,
