

back on this day. Tries to live up to his reputation as chief--each day--not just special occasions. He's very happy today and, following traditional Indian custom, is giving away this horse. Asks Minnie Whiteman from Seiling, Oklahoma to come forward and shake hands with his daughter and accept this horse on behalf of his daughter, Rachel Little Coyote. He also calls for three Cheyenne singers from Lane Deer, Montana--"Morning Star Travellers" is the name of their group. Harry Little Coyote is son of Hailman Little Coyote. So tradition and customs still going today. You people support his special on behalf of his daughter and this is his appreciation."

This is the end of the tape and the end of the afternoon's performance. The program has lasted from about 1:00 p.m. to about 8:00 p.m.--a very long, hot afternoon. Many people have already left, including most of the singers, by the end of this final special.
