

(Killed who?)

Indian. I was about 8 or 9 years old! (Contradiction. If Mr. Haumpy was born in 1897 he should have been 5 years of age at this time.) They chased that Mexican; them other Indians, try to kill him. But he got away. It was Fourth of July celebration. Still have them that way--Fourth of July.

(Where did you learn these stories?)

My father he told us stories. These young Indians--they don't understand Indian talk. None of 'em. Look at 'em. (Pointing to grandchildren and next to one of his daughters who were present). This one, she's a half-breed (pointing to one of his grand-daughters, this grand-daughter was half Kiowa and half white.)
