

(They probably did but I heard it was real interesting you know, fiddle dance. From the way I heard it they had it all around Holdenville and around Eufaula too. So it must be something the Indians used, but you know faded away I guess.)

I know (speaks Creek.) I ask her course I was about, oh I guess I was about sixteen, seven years old. (speaks Creek) She just threw her head back.

(speaks Creek)

(Was she some kin to Bessie?)

Uh-huh

(I remember her.)

Uh-huh, Bessie (speaks Creek) Uncle Barney, Uncle Jim (speaks Creek)

TALKS ABOUT FRIENDS, FAMILY AGAIN AND PERSONAL HEALTH

(Did you hear anymore about Fanny?)

No I never did hear anymore.

(I never did either. But I been looking in paper to see if she got discharge and I haven't seen her name in there.)

Betsy Harjo, you remember her? They got her under oxygen.

(oh is she?)

Up here at General. Uh-huh.

(Oh)

She was in (speaks Creek)

(Uh-hum)

They don't allow to many in there anymore you know.

(Not like they used to)

And you have to have passes to go too.

(I guess they're getting desperate up there now.)

Uh-huh. Sure need another hospital.

(Uh-hum. I know that. I sure hate to go up there but I think I might have to about next month. (speaks Creek)

Oh. (speaks Creek)

(I have a growth or a cyst or something in my uterus. And it will have to be
