

down on the river. 'Cause they call that place the old court-house place. I remember 'em calling it that. But this other place down here by Greenleaf they call that Garfield.

(Recently I read in the paper about the--a group of the Cherokees living in the old Illinois Cherokee district. They're reviving a meeting that they used to have a long time ago. I just wondered if you had heard of that?)

No, I haven't.

OUTLAWS. IN EARLY DAYS.

Way back, you know, long about statehood or before it was quite a few outlaws. I know several of 'em.

(Well!)

There was Miller, Mose Miller, I guess you heard of him?

(Yeah. Mose Miller)

He's buried down here on our farm. Before we moved out of there they moved the cemetery over there on the highway.

(Yeah)

He was buried there. I remember when they buried him. He got killed somewhere's close to Bragg.

(Yeah)

Down south of Braggs. Somewhere down in there. Two of my father's brothers they were called outlaws. They all got killed. That's how come they started that old cemetery down there.

(Yeah)

One outlaw got killed there. Buried him down on our farm. Started a new cemetery there.

(Did they move that cemetery?)
