

(Well)

That's the way--I seen that when I was a little boy.

(Yeah)

And I guess they stayed around two or three days like a picnic, you know.

(Yeah)

Had pop stand, candy and everything.

(Well, that would sure be something to see.)

I seen one fish stuck in the wire, when the water run down. He got stuck in there and couldn't pull out. He was a big one.

(Yeah)

One man drowned that had (not clear). Someone get on top, you know and weighted him down. Had to let him go to--drag bottom of the river.

(Yeah)

Yeah, grapevine that (not clear). That would have been worth something just to see.

(That's right)

Been worth something now.

(It sure would because you won't see again though.)

No, we surely won't.

(That's been a long time ago.)

Long time. They down there towards somewhere like Yonkers, Somewhere along there.

(Yeah)

I don't know where I was, but I remembered. I seen him with the wire coming across the river. But they was making this grapevine whatever they call it. They's way back up here. They twist it and stretch it plumb across. When they have a lot of line then they'd have bunch of men, you know, drag it.
